Come and visit Point Alpha Memorial with us! Point Alpha was an important observation post during the Cold War. Today, the historic site and its components are authentic testimonies that serve to educate visitors about the former border between East and West. In addition to the remains, a newly renovated museum sheds light on the historical context and shows the effects of the GDR's system of repression on the population near the life-threatening border.